Hurricane Matthew

1.5 million AFFECTED
1,000 DEATHS
60,000 HOMELESS

Hurricane Matthew, the strongest Caribbean storm in nearly a decade struck Haiti on October 4, 2016. Of the 1.5 million people affected by the storm, 350,000 are in need of immediate assistance. The death toll is over 1,000 and expected to rise when cut-off communities become accessible.

An estimated 60,000 people have been left homeless. The massive loss of crops and livestock puts enormous pressure on food resources. Flooding has caused water contamination and a new surge in cholera cases is expected.

NPH Relief Efforts

Thankfully the 500 children who live with us full-time are safe and we are fixing the damage to our homes. We are delivering food, water and supplies to hermanos mayores ("older brothers and sisters" who were raised at NPH and now live on their own), and the youth and families who are served by our external programs. Our team at St. Damien Pediatric Hospital is preparing to treat cholera patients for weeks (if not months) to come.
